"Bright red-purple; the highly fragrant bouquet of blackcurrant and cedar flows into an elegant medium-bodied palate, the red and black berry fruits lengthened by exemplary tannins, part berry-part french oak-derived, but harmonious." Drink by 2020. Tasted 05/09/11.

"This was the blend that started it for Flametree a few years ago. Deep and concentrated with immense power and sustained length. The tannins are firm and ripe, the oak liberally applied and the fruit opulent. This is a wine with structure and weight sitting behind it and one which will cellar for a number of years. Cellar 10 years."

"Dark cherry, Barossa shiraz like, oranges, chocolate, gum leaf. Dried fruit component. Ripe and silky, some spice, very ripe tannin, lots of hang time. Quirky. Lot's of silky tannin. Reasonably fresh. Doesn't want for complexity. Drink 2012–2018."

3 stars —Winestate Magazine Nov/Dec 2011

"Dense blackberry/oak aromas and powerful earthy, plum flavours with savoury tannins".
