FLAMETREE WINES MARGARET RIVER CHARDONNAY 2012

Wine Taste Weekly [15th July 2013]

“A great Flametree and a benchmark in affordable Margaret River chardonnay. It’s exact in its expression of a generous vintage, the vibrant purity of lemon blossom and grapefruit toning fig, pear and white peach, perfectly underscored by supportive cashew nut french oak. The finish lingers with considerable persistence and well balanced acidity. Excellent value”.

“Light green-straw; understated elegance are the keywords for this wine; peach, nectarine, fig and grapefruit have been sewn together during the 12 months they spent in predominantly used French oak”.

“Shows a suave blend of richness and vivacity, with a structure of age-- a trait of the best Margaret River Chardonnays”.

The Cairns Post, Cairns Eye Magazine [20th July 2013]

“A great example of a modern Australian chardonnay... it has pears, grapefruit and a touch of fig to it. Great use of oak, with a bracing backbone of acid. Great, long finish to it too. I can honestly say that I’ve had bottles that cost twice, and three times the RRP of this wine that aren’t as good”...
